Fall Out Shelters Are Being Readied In Area

Public fallout shelters were recently selected in Canyon and Umbarger according to County civil defense director Bill Sternberg.

Under President Kennedy's National Shelter Program, started some months ago, buildings suitable for radiation protection have been inspected by private architectural and engineering firms employed by the federal government.

Buildings that offer sufficient radiation protection and large enough to shelter 50 or more people were selected as public fallout shelters if the building owner agreed and signed a form contract.

These buildings are then marked with fallout shelter signs and stocked with food, water, and supplies to handle for 14 days the number of people designated for the shelter.

Public shelters in the Canyon area will accommodate 3,056 people and will be used on the "first come, first serve" basis, said the Randall County Civil Defense.

Civil defense director Sternberg said these examinations and preparations have been in progress for many months and are not a result of the current world situation.

In the event of attack, said Sternberg, people should take warm clothing, flashlights and batteries, and a battery powered radio if possible.

Sternberg expressed his appreciation to all property owners contacted concerning public shelter areas.

Those desiring additional information about public fallout shelters and civil defense planning may contact Sternberg or the city hall office or fire station in Canyon.

Buildings in the Canyon-Umbarger area that have been given approval are as follows:

Panhandle Plains Museum
West Texas State College--1440 people.
Library
West Texas State College--623 people.
Education Building
West Texas State College--336 people.
Administration Building
West Texas State College--275 people.

So The People May Know

(An Editorial)

In spite of the fact that he has no college degree, Jack Seale is one of the best educated men in the 18th Congressional District.

To attack him as being uneducated is about what one would expect from Tommy Thompson, editor of The Amarillo Globe-Times. Canyon folks still have bitter memories of Thompson's unwarranted attacks on Canyon people.

Jack Seale was graduated from Amarillo High School in the middle 1940's. He was a Sandie football player and an honor student.

Even many of Jack Seale's enemies concede that he is possessed of a brilliant mind.

Jack was a fine athlete in high school. He went to Oklahoma on a scholarship. There he was critically injured and was out of school for a time.

When he was able to return to his books, he went to Amarillo College. Jack pursued studies there a year and a half. Then a blow fell which took him out of College and put him in a much sterner school.

Jack's father became very ill. Jack was forced to leave college and as a very young man become the bread winner for his family.

Jack learned well in the University of Hard Knocks of which many of us are alumni. He is the nation's youngest mayor. He is an articulate and forceful speaker.

He is a man of integrity. He is a man of humility and love for his fellow man. Throughout his campaign, Jack Seale has stuck to issues while he himself was being attacked personally.

We mention this to point up that he is a reasonable man and a man capable of great personal restraint.

Jack Seale is a church going man, a family man and a man concerned about the future of his country.

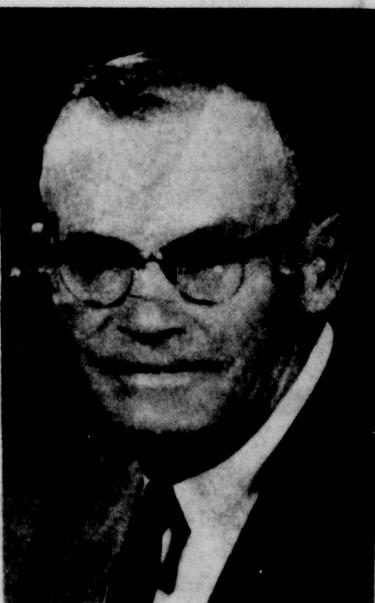

Jack is a man whom we believe will wear the collar of no person or group of persons. When we offered our support unsolicited a few weeks back, Jack Seale looked us in the eye and had this to say: "I will appreciate your help. I can promise you that I will work for the 18th District and to preserve the Constitution of the United States. That's about all I can promise."

That was all we wanted.

We believe this young man's experience, his record and his education (obtained in UHKK though it was) well qualify him to represent this district in the US Congress.

Mr. Fulton came to Canyon from Indiana in 1903. He was 69 years old at the time of his death.

He was born November 23, 1892 in Indiana and was married Feb. 23, 1918 in Canyon.

Survivors include the wife; a son, H. R. Fulton, Jr., Canyon; and three grandchildren, Richard, Lauren and Geanna Fulton, all of Canyon.

Scout Drive Hits $3,178

A total of $3,178.50 has been collected so far in the annual Boy Scout Fund Drive which was begun last Monday in Canyon.

Joe Gibson, campaign chairman, said there were still several people who are out of town that have not been contacted, and their contributions should bring in about $200 or $300 more.

"This has been a very successful campaign," he said. "Everyone seemed to be interested in Boy Scout work, and enthusiastically contributed to the drive."

He also expressed his appreciation to everyone who contributed and to the 120 workers who helped with the drive.

Anyone in Canyon who has not been contacted and would like to donate money to the fund may do so by sending a check to Joe Gibson or Don Stanley. Checks should be made out to the Llano Estacado Boy Scout Council. All contributions are deductible.

Canyon Fire Department firemen struggle to extinguish the blaze in the barn of Ralph Ruthart on his farm west of Canyon. The fire destroyed the barn and all its contents. Loss was set by Ruthart at better than $25,000.

Blaze Guts Farm Barn Causing Heavy Damage

A country fire Sunday evening on the Ralph Ruthart farm 6 miles west of Canyon resulted in the total loss of Ruthart's quonset type barn and between $25,000 and $30,000 worth of farm equipment.

The fire was answered by Canyon Fire Department personnel, but they were hampered by a shortage of water and were unable to put the fire out.

They did manage to save several gasoline storage tanks that were outside the burning barn. Fire department officials said they had no indication as to how the fire started. Ruthart lost two farm trucks, two farm tractors, three boats, electric and acetylene welding equipment, an air compressor, a garden tractor and various hand tools.

Gala Pageant In Mill For Saturday's Game

Half-time ceremonies at the coming West Texas football game with Bowling Green will include the superb West Texas Precision Marching Band during the half-time ceremonies and performances by two high school bands.

The Seagraves High School Marching Band, under the direction of Bob Cheek, a WT graduate of 1956, will perform during the pregame action.

Brownfield High School Marching Band under the direction of Fred Smith will help fill out the half-time ceremonies.

Both of these bands were awarded superior ratings in competitions at their regional contests last year in Lubbock.

In addition to the bands, the West Texas Drill Team will perform during the half. Theirs will follow the WT band performance.

Besides the salutes the WT band will perform, it will put on a show of precision marching patterns that are both complicated and spectacular.

The WT Marching Band specializes in drills that exhibit constantly changing patterns.

Ted Crager, Director of the West Texas Marching Band, said the band is composed of an exceptionally fine group of students. "In addition to being excellent performers, they continually exhibit the very highest type of cooperation and loyalty. They have a wonderful attitude," he said.

Assistant Directors of the WT band are Rowie Durden and Gerald Hemphill. Drum majors are Clyde Wilson of Midland, and Robert Smith of Petersburg. Majorettes are Lyndel Cox from Amarillo, Juanita Titus from Levelland, Beverly Blaine from Plainview, Sandra McCall from Phillips, Cynle Robison from Seagraves and Billie Bourland from Hale Center.

Officers for the band are Mike Berry, president from Odessa; Mike Crawford, vice-president from Spearman; Marjohard Apel, Secretary from Panhandle; Dale Fortune, treasurer from Phillips and reporter Joyce Wilson from Paducah.

The West Texas State College Marching Band is composed of 142 students from all departments of the college.

New Apartment House Permit Issued Here

Bill York, Canyon City Manager, said that construction had started on a modern 16 unit apartment in Canyon at 107 28th Street.

Sam Jones and Karl Hansen of the KAM Construction Company of Amarillo are builders of the new units. York said the apartments will cost about $80,000 and should be finished about January 15.

Made of red brick veneer construction with a composite roof, the apartments will have 16 one-bedroom apartments with built-in gas appliances. The apartments are designed for married students at the college, Jones said. They will have a single bedroom, living room and kitchen-dinette combination.

Jones said that he and Karl Hansen, of the KAM Construction Company saw that there was a distinct need for married student housing and decided to build the apartments.

They chose the 28th street site, Jones said, because it was the best property they could find within walking distance of the college.

Election Party Set

The Canyon News will host an election party next Tuesday night beginning shortly after polls close.

A big bulletin board will be maintained at the front of The Canyon News building located on the east side of the square. Tabulation will continue until all voting precincts have been recorded.

The News maintains a direct line to the Amarillo area and through this and its regular Canyon lines will be able to get almost instant results from the county's 18 precincts.

Redemption Saturday?

Bowling Green Saturday

The biggest, and probably the best, football team to face the West Texas State Buffaloes this year comes to Buffalo Bowl

Saturday afternoon for the final home game of the year.

Bowling Green State's Falcons, undefeated but once-tied in six outings, will fly in from Ohio and attempt to win their second straight from the Buffaloes. In the series inaugural last year at Bowling Green, the Ohioans won, 28-6, on a slippery field.

The Falcons, coached by Doyt Perry and playing control football, have drubbed Dayton, Toledo, Marshall, Western Michigan and Kent State. To point up the fact that Bowling Green moves in the same class as the Big Ten teams of the Midwest, take a look at some comparative scores. Just last week, Bowling Green suffered its only record blemish as it tied Miami of Ohio, 24-24. Two weeks ago, this same Miami club handed Purdue, one of the Big Ten leaders, its only loss of the season, 10-7.

Led by All-American candidate Bob Reynolds, who is 6-6 and 255, the Bowling Green line is massive. It averages about 225 pounds per man and will top the Buffs in that department about 22 pounds each. No. 1 back to watch is Don Lisbon, a 190 pound speedster who can do it all.

The Buffs, hoping to rebound from their first loss last week at the hands of Arizona, 8-3, at Tucson, are still hampered with injuries. Coach Joe Kerbel is hopeful the squad will be in its best shape in three weeks for the big Falcons. The Buffs suffered no new injuries last week, but some old ones were aggravated.

A crowd of about 18,000 is expected for the first day game of the season for West Texas. Good weather conditions could boost it higher.

The West Texas State freshman football team will wind up its season Thursday night playing McMurry's B team at Abilene. The Stompers have dropped decisions to Hardin-Simmons B, Air Force Academy B, and Texas Tech fresh-

MR. AND MRS. PHILLIP MICHAEL HELTON

Miss Gouge-Mr. Helton Wed In Double Ring Ceremony

Mrs. Betty Jewell Gouge became the bride of Phillip Michael Helton in a ceremony that took place on October 25 at 8 o'clock in the evening at the Hillcrest Baptist Church. The Rev. J. Dewey Horton read the double ring ceremony.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Gouge, who live northeast of Canyon, and the bridegroom is the son of Forest Helton of Amarillo and Mrs. W.M. Maxey of Pampa.

Mrs. William W. Alexander, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss JoAnn Thompson of Canyon was bridesmaid. Flower girl was Elizabeth Gail Alexander, and Ronald Bob Hudson was ringbearer. Attendants were identically gowned in toast brown satin dresses with overskirts of silk organza. They wore matching hats and carried bouquets of bronze mums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white taffeta with an overlay of lace and net. The fitted bodice was fashioned with petal point sleeves, and scalloped neckline embroidered with sequins. Her veil of bridal illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls and crystal beads, and she carried a white Bible topped with feathered carnations and chrysanthemums.

Bobby N. Hudson, an uncle of the bride, served as best man, and ushers included James and Stanley Gouge, brothers of the bride, and Bobby Dale and Johnny Helton, brothers of the bridegroom.

A reception in Fellowship Hall of the church followed the ceremony. For their short wedding trip to points of interest throughout the state, the bride wore a three piece flat knit brown wool suit with matching accessories.

Mrs. Helton, a graduate of Canyon High, was employed at Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fennner, and Smith prior to her marriage. The bridegroom is a member of the United States Army stationed at Ft. Bragg North Carolina, with overseas duty in November.

Out of town guests for the ceremony included the bride's (See MISS, Page 5)

Around The Town

Miss Edna Graham has returned to Canyon after an extended visit to relatives in Ft. Worth, Waco, Gatesville, and Lake Charles, Louisiana. She attended homecoming at Sam Houston State College as a member of the class of 1902, where she was honored the outstanding graduate of that class.

Miss Graham, who has retired from the faculty of W.T., has travelled extensively in Canada, Europe and Asia, and the United States. She spent fifty-one years in the teaching field, with thirty-three of them as professor of mathematics at W.T.

The Norman Roberts have had their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. W.B. Mills, Joel and Jan, visiting with them from Aspen, Colorado.

Lou and George Ritter have had guests this month. Lou's mother, Mrs. Guy Sullivan of Joplin, Mo. is still here visiting, while her aunt, Mrs. Ruby Swilling has just left to return to her home in Alhambra, Calif.

When Mary and Dale Harter went to Los Angeles earlier this month to attend the International Convention of Christian Churches, they came back via Bakersfield, and picked up Mary's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Winn, and brought her to Canyon for a visit. She is still here but says that she must leave next week.

We are sad to relate that Canyon is losing the David Lipscomb family to the University of Tennessee very shortly, possibly in the next two weeks. David has been asked to join the staff of the hearing clinic at U.T., which is one of the finest of its kind anywhere. Their going will be a loss to both the college and the community.

Those who haven't heard yet will be glad to know that Jim Cowart is at home and back in school.

He is on a part-time basis until he is a little stronger, but other than that, he reports that he is doing fine.

The Carl W. Smiths celebrated having members of their family here this weekend with a picnic in Palo Duro Park on Saturday night. Here were, Carl J. Smith, Portales, and Mrs. Faye Smith and Eudean Glover of Abilene.

Twice this week in calling to check other facts we found that those we called had visitors or items of interest for the paper, but had neglected to call them in. Please take the time to call because we are interested in YOU.

Luncheon Fetes New Resident

Mrs. Bob Harry, new comer to Canyon who is wife of the Educational Director of the First Baptist Church, was honored on Wednesday, October 24, with a salad luncheon in the home of Mrs. Roy Lyles, 2507 8th Avenue. Mrs. Gene McGlasson was co-hostess.

Tables were decorated in the fall motif with pumpkins, autumn leaves and flowers.

Present for the occasion were Mesdames JoZack Byrd, Harold Jay Prichard, Dale Killingsworth, George Blackwell, Raymond Raillard, Bernard Warren Jay Wooten, Troy Martin, Battle Harris, Don Standley, Gene Morrison, Carroll Vaughan, Bobby Byrd and James Dunn.

DAR's Hold Meeting

The regional meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held last week in Plainview. Ten members from the Ester McCrory chapter of Amarillo attended including Mrs. W. W. Bridges, Regent of the chapter and Mrs. T. B. McCarter and Mrs. Clyde Warwick of Canyon.

MRS. ARVIL WELDON GRAY

Mary Catherine Driggers Wed To Arvin Weldon Gray Oct. 20

In a ceremony solemnized at 8 o'clock in the evening on October 20 at St Joseph's Catholic Church, Mary Catherine Driggers, became the bride of Arvil Weldon Gray. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Jones of 3500 Lipscomb in Amarillo, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr.

and Mrs. A. B. Gray of Canyon.

Msgr. Francis A. Smyer performed the double ring ceremony before center and side altars decorated with yellow and gold mums. Traditional wedding music was offered by organist, Mrs. Tobey Gardner, and soloist, Mrs. Joy Cain, sister of the bridegroom, who sang, "On This Day, Oh Beautiful Mother," and "The Wedding Prayer."

Miss Carol Biggers, maid of honor, wore a moss green wool suit with beige accessories. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow pom pom mums.

Billy Coleman of Canyon served as best man, and ushers were Bobby, Joey, Sammy and Jay Jones, all brothers of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of beige wool with a matching jacket trimmed in white fox fur. Her matching fur hat featured a short veil, and her accessories were beige. She carried a cascade bouquet centered with two talisman roses atop a white Bible. Carrying out the traditional "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue", she wore crystal earrings belonging to her mother, the white Bible she carried belonged to the bridegroom's family, and she wore a blue turquoise pin of her mother's.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Jones chose a navy blue Italian silk suit with white accessories, and a corsage of red sweetheart roses. Mrs. Gray, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gray brocade suit with matching accessories and her corsage was also of red sweetheart roses.

A reception at 805 Georgia followed the ceremony. Bridal colors of green and gold were carried out at the bride's table which was centered with a ten tiered white wedding cake decorated with yellow floral decorations, and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Silver vases holding arrangements of yellow and gold mums completed the table decor.

Mrs. Landrum Osborne, a cousin of the bridegroom, presided at the Bride's Book, and Mrs. Wayne Jones, and Mrs. Max Cain were members of the houseparty also serving at the reception.

For traveling on a wedding trip to Taos, New Mexico, the bride wore a navy dress trimmed in red and white, with red accessories, and a corsage of talisman roses.

The bride, a graduate of Amarillo High School, attended both Amarillo College and West Texas State College. She is now employed at the American National Bank.

Mr. Gray attended Canyon High School and is now employed by the Glover Packing Company.

day in November each year since the early 1940's when concerned church women first studied together the problems of peace, in the belief that the mission of the church and world affairs are interdependent and interlocking.

They have worked together across racial and denominational lines to meet human need, and have continually expressed their faith that lasting peace can be established with freedom and justice. Each year as they have worshipped together, United Church Women have given generously to open new opportunities for women in the emerging nations.

This year the clothing called for to send to Asia are boy's "T" shirts and boxer shorts and piece goods for sarongs for the women. The offering will go to the "Mardi Santsa" Hospital in Surabaja, Java, to complete the center that trains nurses and village health workers.

All Canyon women are urged to join in this peace effort at the Presbyterian Church tomorrow, Friday November 2. Coffee will be served by Mrs. Mary Bonnie and Mrs. Margaret Tuck. Mrs. Bonnie Whittington is making nursery arrangements for all children whose mothers would like to attend.

Horrors! Buffs 3 Cats 8

Arizona's climate was too hot for the Buffaloes last Saturday night at Tucson.

The Wildcats of the University of Arizona handed West Texas State its first defeat of the season and snapped a Buff-alo winning streak at six games. The final score was 8 to 3 in favor of the host team.

The Buffs were down and the Wildcats were up and that was about the size of it. Also, though the WT coaches refused to claim the alibi, the Buffs were plagued with injuries from end to end.

David McInturf did not even make the trip. Russell Mundy has been hurt. Pete Pedro was hurt in the Arlington game and has not been himself since. Jim Ostrander is on the injured list though still playing. Stu Johnson has been hurt. Jerry Don Logan has not been up to par.

The list of injured last week read like roll call at an army infirmary.

The Buffs had not had the privilege of practicing together as a unit for at least a week.

Then the fates which watch over football games and impossibly insert a sprinklin of upsets into Saturday play, seemed to decree that things just wouldn't go right at Tucson for the Buffaloes.

Things that couldn't happen did. Things that should have happened didn't.

Never did a team try harder. It just wasn't meant to be.

The Buffs started off like they meant business. WT kicked off to the Wildcats and in four plays Jerry Richardson took possession for the Buffs with a fair catch of a cat punt on the Buff 33.

Incidentally, Richardson played one of his finest games of the season at Tucson.

The Buffs marched in short order to the Arizona 6-yard line. West Texas fans who had made the long trip to Tucson visualized another 49-0 score for their darlings, yawned, sat back and pondered the quickest way to get to the dog races after the game.

Then the spell of Hecate fell on the Texans. The great offensive machine sputtered and died. Russell Mundy, almost always good for four, made a yard.

Pete Pedro lost a yard. Then Jerry Don Logan got it back. With the ball on the five, Ollie Ross booted a field goal for three points.

A few plays later, Richardson had the ball back with a fair catch on his own 24. In a dozen plays West Texas was back at the Wildcats' door on their 23.

On a second down play, Richardson's pass was intercepted by Fairholm on the Arizona 7 and the Buffs had missed another opportunity to score.

The Buffs had the ball twice more in the first half but lost it as many times--once on an interception and once on a fumble as hard luck dogged their trail.

They still led their hosts by a field goal margin as the half-time whistle sounded.

Pete Pedro took the Wildcat kick as the second half opened. He made a 10-yard run back to the 6. The Buffs moved the ball into Arizona territory but were forced to kick out from the 47 when fourth down found them four yards shy of a first.

The Buffs kept the game deep in Wildcat territory for the remainder of the quarter but never were able to hit a homerun.

The Wildcats threatened midway in the fourth quarter. The Buffs put up a magnificent goal line stand which left the host team two yards short of a touchdown.

On second down Hoot Gibson's punt was blocked by Mike O'Mahony. The ball went out of the end zone and Arizona scored a safety.

The Buffs led 3 to 2.

Arizona got the ball on its own 45 after West Texas punted following the safety.

Jim Dawson passed twice to Richardson and the Buffs were on the Arizona 33 and the smell of another WT victory was sweet as attar of roses in the nostrils of Buffalo fans.

But again the upset imp took a hand. Pedro fumbled for a loss of 11. Dawson hit Logan for good yardage but not enough for the first down. Then Dawson was smothered back on the 37 while trying to get off a pass. There was only 1:15 left to play and the Arizona team used ball

Wildcat Quarterback Jim Faulks (14) tries to get off a pass but Big Buff Ollie Ross has broken through and is putting the hand on him. Rushing up to help their Wildcat team mate are Ed Wimberley, (79) right tackle, and Jim Singleton (89). In the background is Woody Gilliland, Buff end.

Along The Sideline

We were particularly impressed with the turf on the two Arizona playing fields we have visited. Canyon Bowl probably is too new to have accumulated a turf such as found on the football fields at Tempe and Tucson.

However, we do have one of the most beautiful stadiums here at Canyon that it has been our pleasure to see anywhere. Think of how beautiful it will be when it finally has a thick turf and the earthen hills at the end are covered with greenery.

We haven't found out who keeps the grounds at Buffalo Bowl but for whoever does, we have this tip. One of the world's foremost experts on lawn grasses either has been or still is located at the High Plains research station near Plainview.

He is Dr. T.C. Longnecker. Tom once was a consultant for the Cotton Bowl. That was while he was at the experiment station at Renner, which is nearby.

Elsewhere on this page is a blank to be filled out and sent in with dues to the BAM Club. There are 100,000 ex-students of West Texas State, plus countless others who are interested in WT football.

We've been. But the half time program is to the football game like the icing on a cake. One can be had without the other but they're much better together.

We're going to try to cajole Ted into getting someone to lead singing for the stands. Think of 20,000 voices blended. That alone would bring us hundreds if not thousands of additional spectators and participants.

Ted Crager--one of the leading band directors in the Southwest--already has been giving us fine programs. We don't think we have done our part in publicizing them.

Nothing happened right at Tucson last week end. Pardon us if we don't write much about it. We didn't even get many pictures.

If we were standing to the right, the play went to the left. When we switched to the left we could count on a right end sweep.

What Another Editor Says About . .

Dr. Fidel Castro

(TOMMY THOMPSON IN THE AMARILLO GLOBE TIMES,

APRIL 20, 1959)

"To me, the young Cuban premier does not appear to be a man of action. His pale ascetic face has a classic mold. Obviously he is most attractive to women.

His voice is not thin but it has a tremulous quality about it. Some of the editors (at the American Society of Newspaper Editors' Luncheon in Washington Friday, April 17) believe Castro is unspeakably naive; he is simply an interim figure, and there will be two more men before the real leader emerges in Cuba. He may be a Servinsky or a Trotsky, but nine out of ten editors attending the ASNE convention were favorably impressed with Castro. They are going home to tell their millions of daily newspaper readers that here is a simple old boy who has done a great job and deserves a break. Who knows? From the backwoods of Cuba another Abraham Lincoln may have emerged."

A.B. Holt Honored By Kiwanis Club

A. B. Holt was honored Friday noon at a regular meeting of the Canyon Kiwanis Club in the American Legion Hall. Holt was the subject of a "This Is Your Life" presentation by Rev. Strauss Atkinson, Pastor of the First Baptist Church for extensive service as treasure of the First Baptist Church.

Pastor Atkinson told the Kiwanians of the background of Holt, describing when and where he was born and the adventures of his early boyhood in Kentucky. Holt moved from Kentucky to Arkansas and then to Perryton, Texas, where he entered into the automobile business, said Atkinson. He went on to describe the meeting of Holt with Miss Ida Faye Smith in 1918, his wife to be. Holt moved to Canyon shortly after his marriage to Ida Faye where he and his wife had two children, both girls, Rev. Atkinson said. Holt was then engaged in a trucking business between Canyon and Amarillo, he added.

In 1928, Holt went into the wholesale gasoline business and then into the retail gasoline business, Rev. Atkinson said.

He said, that in 1942, Mrs. Holt died, leaving Mr. Holt with two young daughters to care for. He later married Ocoee Warden, the teacher of one of his daughters, Rev. Atkinson reported.

Rev. Atkinson closed out the presentation by saying, "We know that we will find A. B. Holt still very active in his devotion and his loyalty to his God, his family and his community." Immediately following the regular meeting, the board of directors voted A. B. Holt the first honorary member of Canyon Kiwanis Club.

Long Ride Home For Buff Football Team

The TWA airliner eased down onto the runway at Amarillo Air Terminal Sunday afternoon winding up the saddest road trip of the year for the Buffalo football squad and their entourage.

The Buffs had lost an 8-3 decision to the University of Arizona at Tucson and only a few relatives and friends were at the airport to greet them. This was in sharp contrast to the crowd of 500 who came to the terminal to meet the returning team after it had upset the Sun Devils at Tempe two weeks earlier.

Athletic Director Frank Kimbrough was constrained to make the wittiest remark of the entire trip.

"Perry Mason had better stay in the law profession," he declared with feeling. "If he ever coaches a while he'll lose one now and then."

The Buffs took off from Amarillo late Friday and arrived about 8 o'clock the same evening. They were met at the airport by Ray Franks, director of sports publicity from WT, and his counterpart from the University of Arizona.

They had sideline passes for those of us there in an official capacity. They even furnished us with programs so we would have a day to study the Wildcat roster.

Just like at Tempe, everyone was talking about Pete Pedro, the little Buff backfield flash. But Pete seems to be jinxed in Arizona. When game time came, he didn't make much yardage.

Mr. and Mrs. J.O. Parker made the trip out with the team. They were met there by the Hosea Fosters, who had driven through earlier and attended the game and made the return trip with them.

Also on the plane was Dr. Charles Nester. Mrs. Nester had gone out by plane earlier Friday with the A.W. Lairs. The George Blackwells motored out with an Amarillo couple.

Just before game time Saturday night we saw the Buffs' Old Faithful crawling up into the stands. It was Bill Griffin. He and Mrs. Griffin had driven out to Tucson.

The Bryan McDonalds drove out.

We were surprised to find that the victory bell was on the sideline. It was taken out behind a car by Roy McGregor, Butch Williams and Richard Goodwin. These Sigma Nu members presided over the bell at the game.

They became involved in a fracas of short duration when some University of Arizona fraternity members tried to take the symbolic bell away from them. The WT lads were able to defend the bell until help arrived in the form of a Tucson policeman. The try to take the bell was passed off as youthful exuberance and fun.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Walker of Whittier, Cal., drove over to see the game and to have a visit with her nieces, Rita and Nita Cartwright, Buff cheer leaders.

The cheer leaders, including Emma Kay Holland and Kay Spurlock and Jo Carol Hickox, drove out for the game. Another student present was Johnny Garrison.

Virgil Henson, WT business manager, went along with the Buffs last week end and Coach Joe Rector made the first road trip of the season with his team.

Joe usually spends the week end scouting upcoming games for his team. Last week West Texas and Bowling Green swapped films of previous games and agreed to dispense with scouting.

The hardest working person on the trip was Moby Dick (Lester Brewer), head student trainer.

Moby took charge of all luggage for us. He checked it out at the airport and saw that it was loaded onto a bus. We of the press and radio station staffs then were able to hop off the plane and into a waiting car and be off for dinner.

Our luggage was waiting for us at the motel when we arrived there. Rooms were already reserved for us by our athletic director.

The fans at Tucson were much less rabid than those we had encountered at Tempe. It was a good congenial crowd.

We were treated to a gala half time show. Some 30 high school bands from over the state were assembled. The Wildcat band is itself magnificent.

A sing song was staged at half time. The crowd joined in enthusiastically.

There was little enthusiasm among Buff fans as we returned to the motel. We didn't feel much like sitting up and re-playing the game as we did at Tempe. Most of us went right to bed.

The return trip was uneventful until we arrived this side of Albuquerque. Then the weather got rough. Five members of the team became air sick.

There was one consolation for the team. It gets a chance to redeem itself next Saturday afternoon when it meets Bowling Green.

Buff football players de-plane after the game with the University of Arizona at Tucson. It was a sad homecoming following their first defeat at the hands of the Wildcats. The Buff were cheered by one thought--that they will have the opportunity to redeem themselves in the game with Bowling Green next Saturday afternoon.

We, the friends of Clarence Beckman who have observed his official record over the years as County Commissioner of Precinct 2, know that Mr. Beckman has proven himself time and time again in the interest of the entire County of Randall in addition to his precinct.

Aside from his most efficient and economical handling of the maintenance of the roads of his precinct, we think Mr. Beckman is more valuable to the County as a whole in the practice of TRUE, PROGRESSIVE ECONOMY.

We most earnestly solicit your vote and support for a true County Official on November 6, 1962. In fact, we feel that the people of Randall County need Mr. Beckman as a Commissioner much more than Mr. Beckman needs the job.

THINK, IRRIGATION FARMER!

WATER is a commodity so precious that no tyrant has ever dared deny it to his people. The earliest records of our civilization are linked to the spring and the waterhole, the river and the well. The Children of Israel faltered in the wasteland and were ready to revolt until Moses struck the rock and brought forth a spring. Wars have been fought over water rights and mighty nations have vanished because their water resources failed.

In view of these facts, can you afford the luxury of irrigation "TAILWATER"??

Canyon FFA Feed Pens Aid Boys On Projects

BY THE VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE STAFF
The FFA Motto is learning to do, doing to learn, earning to live, living to serve.

The boys in the Canyon FFA chapter strive to live up to this motto in all they do at school and at home. An example of this belief in learning by doing is our project feeding pens south of the new High School Building.

The boys of the chapter and the Vocational Agriculture teachers Ed Dwyer and Leon Bagwell have been trying to set up a chapter feed mixing operation and to provide facilities for the boys to feed their projects.

These operations are planned to benefit the boys now in the chapter and the boys who will come into the chapter in the future years.

Work actually began on this operation in the fall of 1958. The boys in vocational agriculture decided that if they were to have a feeding area they were going to have to get out and start to work on it.

So, they located J.E. Miller who had some old sheds that the boys could have for tearing them down and clearing the lots. This operation gave the boys some very usable scrap lumber and fence posts. The non-usable lumber was very handy for the bonfire. Most of the scrap lumber was converted into 6 x 6 hog houses.

During this time the school was planning the new school buildings that would have to be erected. They purchased the site for the new school and purchased it with room for a project feeding area in mind. The set up was ideal.

The location would be close enough for the boys to care for the feeding area and yet far enough away from the school that there would be no confusion created. The boys fell to work with a will and by the time the year ended they had cleared off all of the prickly pear and mosquito from the land.

During the early fall of 1959 the students built eight of the 6 x 6 houses as a shop project and leveled the land for the placing of the houses.

They mixed the concrete and poured it and finished it themselves. This gave the boys room for about thirty projects. They used up more of the scrap lumber and built panels for the pens.

At the end of the 1959-60 the school gave the FFA boys the old barracks building that was immediately west of what is now the maintenance building at the Jr. High School.

The boys again fell to and in a matter of days had converted the building into stacks of scrap lumber that was usable in their endeavors. Summer again brought work to a standstill.

The fall of 1960 showed another increase in the number of boys in vocational agriculture and the number of boys that would need a place to keep their projects.

So, once again came the operation of building panels, building hog houses, building fences, etc. By the middle of September the area was capable of caring for about fifty pigs.

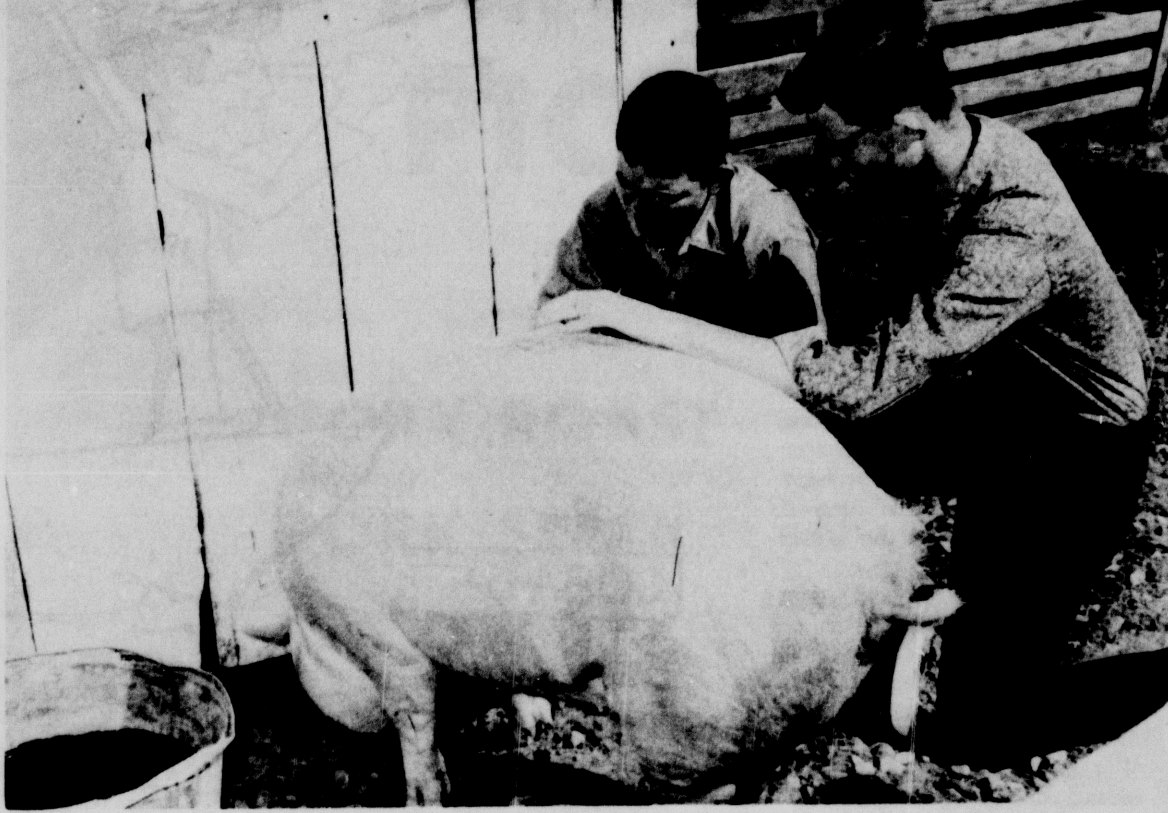

All of the pens were filled to capacity. During the year other improvements and cleaning up operations were done.

The fall of 1961 we received the flooring out of the old gym at the Jr. High School and converted this into panels. Mrs. Myers gave the boys the buildings at Myer's Hatchery if they would tear them down and move them out. The wrecking crew again came into its own.

Sam Bagwell, vocational agriculture instructor, inspects a weld done by Henry Meyer while Teddy Vance, Charles Evers, Don Freeman and

Sam Cummings look on. Much of the equipment for the feeding area was made in shop and then taken to the pens for installation.

This is an example of the projects being kept at the feeding pens.

Three of the buildings were of such condition that it seemed a shame to tear them down so after conferring with the school administration and the school board we were given permission to have the buildings moved to the feeding area.

We ran the foundations for the buildings and then had them moved onto the foundations. They looked pretty rough at first but the boys got a lot of experience in fixing up, stuccoing, repairing, painting, etc. The boys themselves did most of the work.

This school year has done more than any other for making the feeding area a near ideal set up. The demand for feeding area had grown so much that we were forced to build a second line of pens. This gives us 24 such pens that will take care of over 100 pigs at one time.

The lines of pens are side by side and a gutter running between the two lines facilitates cleanliness and sanitation. The buildings that were moved in were floored.

One of the buildings is to be used as a grain storage bin, one as a five sow farrowing house (complete with farrowing stalls built by the boys), and the other to be used as a combination garage and slaughter house.

The garage is to be used for those jobs such as tractor or maintenance where it is necessary to have a piece of machinery torn down over an extended period of time. The slaughter house will be used to give the boys practical experience of killing, cutting and curing pork.

The boys have set up a co-operative system of feed buying. W.E. Hill has been cooperating with the boys in this operation and by this system the boys have been getting reduced prices on their feed.

The chapter is now in the process of putting in its own grinding and rolling and mixing operation in order to give the boys feed at an even lower price than before.

The school district purchased two 1000 bushel grain bins for grain storage. They also purchased the grain roller and the motors to operate the roller and mixer.

J.O. Parker gave the chapter a 1000 pound capacity mixer with which he started his feeding operations. Claude Bagwell gave the chapter a hammer mill and gasoline motor to operate it. Heath & Lawless Oliver Co. gave the boys a 2000 pound capacity grain tank and have loaned the boys tractors and machinery on many occasions.

Myers Farm Equipment Co. has given good discounts on all purchases and have loaned us tractors and equipment when needed. Numerous other friends have given equipment, time and support.

Our plans for the future call for a continuation of the expansion of the feeding areas so as to meet the increased enrollment in agriculture. Plans now on paper call for facilities to feed calves for our show. Plans call for a small lamb feeding area and for facilities to keep some breeding stock.

It is the hope of the boys that our area will be a learning as well as an earning proposition.

We want to take this opportunity to thank the school, the board of Education, our parents and all of the businesses and individuals who have helped us on our projects.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I don't pretend to know what possesses you to hate our form of government so much. Perhaps you were crossed in love during your early days and then again during your formative years you may have run into a bunch of anarchists or like Alice Roosevelt Longworth said of the late President Coolidge you may have been weaned on a pickle, thereby souring your disposition.

One thing seems evident lately though you are slipping as in your last issue you said not one derogatory word about Senator Yarbroough or again perhaps the truth has at last dawned upon you that he is the savior of Texas.

During a late trip back east I did a little investigating on my own about the good Senator, but unlike Editor Baggerly of Tulsa, I did it at a more humble level. None of this ivory tower stuff of wiring a gang of Brother Senators to get their opinion of Senator Yarbroough. I went directly to the grass roots composed of whittlers around the courthouse of Tennessee, Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia, and other states and those whittlers recognized me as being from Texas, were unanimous in lauding Senator Yarbroough as one of the best men who ever came to Congress, and that it was our duty here in Texas to keep him there for many years to come.

In last week's issue of The Canyon News, Dr. Hill outlined my political philosophy a thousand times better than I could if I wrote from now until doomsday.

Dr. Hill, that great oracle of the plains who stands with both feet firmly planted on the ground, and who with his far-seeing eyes can discern the distant coming brotherhood of mankind. Thank God Canyon has him. Also I might add that if all the derogatory words said and written about President Kennedy and Ralph Yarbroough were laid end to end, they would reach the moon and back with a sizeable pile of left overs. This my friends is a true sign of greatness as was Abraham Lincoln. I might also say that while the Jack-ass may be the symbol of the Democratic Party, yet we have no corner on said animals and especially of the self-made variety.

Farmer Schaeffer (Editor's Note: Farmer, I could forgive Senator Yarbroough his federal expenditure on making Padre Island a bathing resort if you'll promise to go there and take a bath.)

LOOKING FOR SHIPS - OR VOTES?

Dear Editor:

"Enjoy the convenience of a bank savings account!" What a fine slogan this is, when Canyon merchants cooperate to make it meaningful. The sad truth is that several Canyon drive-in restaurants do not seem to believe in checks. Their belief seems to be: "The customer is always right so long as he pays cash!"

One such establishment attaches the condition that "checks over $3.00 will not be cashed." Another issues the plaintive cry, "You will have to come inside to cash your check!" The most brazen of these backward firms simply has a sign in the window which says "NO CHECKS CASHED."

I consider all three of these statements to be personal insults to my character and financial standing. Other citizens of Canyon may be content to accept such power tactics, but I for one will not. Let it be known this day that firms who will not honor my personal check will certainly not enjoy my patronage and support! I earnestly hope that these offending businesses will mend their suspicious ways, and that they will endeavor to place a little friendly trust in their neighbors.

Sincerely,
Gene Autry Bitner

Gene: You should ask some of these merchants to show you their hot check file some time. Merchants have been known to go bankrupt because they did not exercise care in accepting checks. You reform everyone, Gene, to the point that no worthless checks are given in Canyon and we're certain that Canyon merchants will begin taking checks without question. Until then, carry proper identification and a good reputation.

Dear Mr. Martin,
Dr. Hill says in Oct. 25 editorial that the U.S. would be "inconsistent" to invoke the Monroe doctrine when we have built a ring of bases around Russia. I would like to remind the good Dr. that where we have these bases we have not gone in and subverted and overthrown the governments of these countries as Russia did to Cuba.

Let's clean up the Cuban mess and let the historians worry about whether we were "inconsistent" or not.

Also, Dr. Hill, since when has the "United Nations" had its purpose "to advance the cause of world peace?"

New Respect

Americans all over the globe walk with heads a little higher this week as a result of the U.S. stand in the Cuban crisis.

It was the first military and diplomatic victory for the United States since World War II. Regardless of whether or not it was conceived in politics, as some fear, it was a great victory for the free world.

We are with you on the Cuban crisis, Mr. President. It is the American people who sit unflinching under the mouth of thermonuclear missiles while you make your play. You owe it to them not to give away at a conference table or at the United Nations this sweet bit of prestige. We are behind you in this show of strength. We beseech you, do not let us down.

FROM THE CANYON RIM

We can't help being amused at those who present Walter Rogers' pork barrel abilities as ample reason for sending him back to Congress.

"Not a major federal project in this area in recent years that he hasn't supported ably and effectively," says one Rogers apologist.

This apologist did not say that all the federal spending done in this district has purchased things actually needed. He praised only the money grab.

Something that eludes some folks is the fact that money for those federal projects is my money and yours. It is the concentrated sweat of someone who toils.

Are we going to worship at the feet of professional politicians who take the fruits of our labors and then toss us a few crumbs from our own slice of bread?

Rogers gloats over getting federal money spent in his district but does not mention having voted against a bill which portends more progress and prosperity for the farmers of Deaf Smith, Randall, Swisher and Castro Counties than anything that has come before Congress in recent years. We're talking about the sugar beet (See CANYON RIM, Page 3)

by Dr. J. A. Hill

Hilltop Views

The political hassle will soon be a thing of the past for this year. Nation wide most polls indicate there will be little change in the completion of our national law-making body. Democrats will retain easy control of both houses, though the Republicans will pick up a few seats here and there. It is believed that President Kennedy's Cuban blockade address will reduce Republican gains. The people of this country feel that the President has snatched the initiative from Mr. Krushchev and hope he will keep it. The Soviet premiere is not as adept on defense as on offense.

And speaking of our congressional elections, the Panhandle presents a strange picture. As pointed out in a recent editorial in the Claude News, and contrary to what is being widely said, Congressman Rogers has done a tremendous service for his district. Not a major federal project in this area, in recent years that he hasn't supported ably and effectively. It would seem that gratitude alone would silence opposition.

Certain elements in Amarillo seem to be spearheading the fight against Rogers, although that city more than any other part of the Panhandle has been benefitted by Rogers' services. The only way I can explain that situation is to believe that some Amarillo citizens are pie-hungry. There has not been a Congressman from that city since the distinguished tenure of Marvin Jones, a man of whom all Texas is proud. Amarillo has many men (and women) who are capable of serving well in Congress, but as of now I see no evidence that the present Republican candidate is one of them.

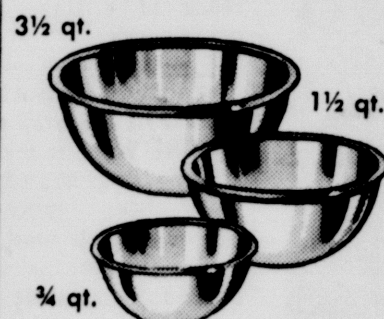

As to the race for Governor, two items came to my attention very recently that may have considerable significance. The Dallas News, which is widely known for its conservatism if not reactionism and which claims to be an Independent Democratic newspaper, carried on its front page an editorial which in fact was addressed to Conservative Democrats. It declared that while both major candidates for Governor are capable and good men and conservative it might be well for all conservatives to support the Democratic candidate (Connally) to protect the state against control by liberals, which, in the opinion of the News, would be disaster.

bill, which in spite of Rogers, is about to bring multi-million dollar agricultural industry to the area.

As a result of passage of this bill, a $20 million sugar beet mill is about to be constructed at Hereford by private means to serve growers of the area. We may be able in the not too distant future to have a new money crop for our farmers.

When the chips were down on the sugar beet bill Walter Rogers voted nay.

We chided Dr. J. A. Hill good naturedly this week for saying he sees no evidence that Jack Seale is capable of serving as Congressman from this district.

Dr. Hill didn't look very hard. He refused an invitation to hear Seale speak when the candidate appeared here. He could have attended and asked questions of the candidate had he so desired.

H. M. Baggerly down Tulla way also refused an invitation to hear Seale when the candidate was in Tulla. Baggerly then has the temerity to castigate sight unseen.

None are so blind as those who will not see.

We would never presume to write about Mr. Rogers if we had refused to hear him. This newspaper has dealt factually and impartially with the Congressman in all news stories concerning him and has given front page coverage to his every appearance in Canyon.

When the Congressman has done well—which has been infrequent—we have never neglected to praise him.

Rogers was in the office of the Canyon News about a week ago. He expressed appreciation to us personally for the fair coverage he has gotten in The Canyon News.

We explained to the Congressman that our editorial page is a different thing entirely. We do not think the Congressman has done a good job and on our editorial page it is our privilege to say so.

Only this week we were accused of slanting news stories in The Canyon News. We have every news story on file that we have ever printed. We make this offer to anyone who holds this opinion. Come check through our files with pencil in hand. When you find a news story that is distorted, mark it. If it turns out that you are correct, we will apologize in public print.

We believe that the public will conclude that anyone who makes the serious charge of news slanting and then refuses to mark the stories on which

The other potentially significant item also appeared in the Dallas News in an article by former U.S. Senator from Texas, the honorable Earl Mayfield Sr. of Tyler. He pointed out that Senator Goldwater in a recent plea for Republican unity, declared that while he was in almost complete disagreement with Eisenhower, Nixon, Rockefeller, and others of their kind he was going along with them to preserve Republican solidarity. This is, indeed, strange logic for Senator Goldwater, who, for two or more years has plead with Democrats to forsake their party, join the Republicans, and thus destroy Democratic solidarity. Party loyalty, according to Senator Goldwater, is fine for Republicans but party disloyalty would be a prime virtue for Democrats. Oh, Consistency, thy name is not Goldwater!

But in the article by former Senator Mayfield it is pointed out that party loyalty is just as virtuous and desirable for Democrats as for Republicans and so he (Mayfield) thought out of harmony with Kennedy Democrats on many things, intends to stay with them in this election and vote the Democratic ticket straight. Just how much weight Senator Mayfield's point of view may carry in this election is anybody's guess, but it certainly has as much validity as has Senator Goldwater's.

I see candidate Cox is working overtime on that sterile argument about the need for a two-party state. No doubt when he gets Texas straightened out along this line he will go up to Vermont and persuade enough Republicans to join the Democratic party to make that state a two-party paradise.

You 2-party advocates are riding a lame nag. New York, Illinois, Michigan, New Jersey, and others are all 2 party states and have the rottenest politics in America. If candidate Cox doesn't know this he is too ill-informed to be Governor of Texas. If he does know it and yet preaches the two-party idea he disqualifies himself for Governor on the basis of insincerity. Some of you may conclude that I am not for Cox; and you are right.

his accusation is predicated is being grossly unjust.

We heard an argument this week against the two-party system.

We have only this to say, folks who think the one-party system is best for Texas must think it would be best for the nation.

Here are some historic advocates of one-party states-- Il Duce, Adolf Hitler, Napoleon, Lenin and Stalin. We do not mean to be unkind in pointing to these examples. One-party systems anywhere, whether it's Ghana or Texas, are fraught with danger.

What would Tammany have become without Racket-busting Tom Dewey?

Back to H. M. Baggerly, the man from Tulla. Baggerly wept bitter tears less than a year ago because of what he called "guilt by association." He was upset then because those using every method at their disposal to fight anti-communist groups were being accused of parroting the Communist "Worker." Baggerly—who admits he never served an apprenticeship under a real editor—last week quoted in his Tulla publication from a purported speech by some Californian.

Then he had the gall to say the Californian represents the same kind of thinking as does Jack Seale.

Baggerly, who didn't even bother to cover Seale's speech in Tulla, purports to know all about what Seale thinks.

For that matter, this man who frets so much about what is going on in Canyon and Amarillo, admits he doesn't even know what is going on in Tulla.

Baggerly told us less than a month ago that he does not staff meetings of commissioners court and school board meetings in Tulla.

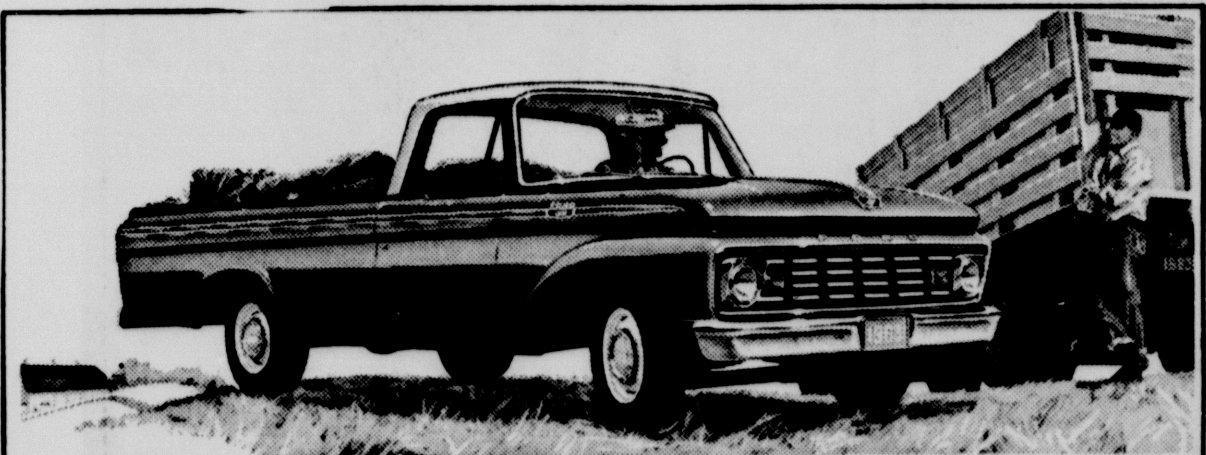

Staff coverage of these governing bodies is basic with NEWSPAPERS everywhere.

Can you blame the people of Canyon and Amarillo for being reluctant to take advice on how to run their communities from an operator of a publication who admittedly knows so little about his own?

TOXIC RANGE PLANTS

In last weeks column we discussed the Great American Desert and how desert plants manage to stay alive under dry conditions. We said this week would be devoted to agriculturally important range plants of the Panhandle.

Among the many species of plants in the Panhandle there are several which are harmful to livestock if eaten in large quantities.

The two main offenders are locoweed and milkweed. They are both fairly common in the Panhandle.

Although most farmers and ranchers are already familiar with these two plants and are actively engaged in their eradication, we want to elaborate on them for public information. We hope the information will be of service to some.

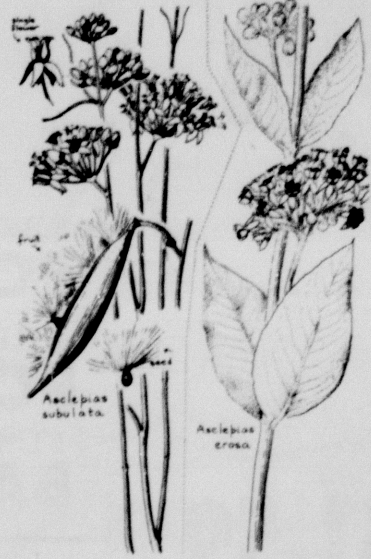

Locoweed, probably the biggest offender in the Panhandle, grows in clumps or tufts from large roots and has pea-like flowers which may range from white to purple in color. Locoweed grows throughout most of the year, even in winter, though usually on the poorer soils of abused and overgrazed pastures.

Horses, cattle and sheep are susceptible to poisoning by locoweed. It is said that horses which have been affected by locoweed poisoning never regain their vigor and are of little value as saddle and work animals.

Affected beef cattle usually show poor weight gain and abilities. Calf losses are exceptionally high in stock that has eaten substantial amounts of the weed.

Although livestock will not normally eat locoweed unless they are on overgrazed or abused pasture, they sometimes develop a liking for the weed and will seek it out.

It is significant that locoweed is poisonous during all stages of its growth. It is also important that the plant continues to grow during the late fall and into the winter months when other green pasturage is somewhat scarce.

Death usually comes several months after livestock have consumed any sizeable amount of the poisonous weed. Affected cattle lose weight, show weakness and extreme nervousness with an awkward, irregular gait and may react violently when disturbed.

The best prevention of locoweed poisoning is to keep stock off pasture that is infected with the plant. Chemical eradication is often ineffective and costly. Grubbing shows some results, but is also prohibitive for large areas.

Since locoweed is an invader on abused and overgrazed soil, the most permanent way to eradicate the plant is to keep adequate plant cover on the ground.

Most toxic and otherwise harmful range plants are usually unpalatable to livestock and are eaten only when little else is available. This includes overgrazed and otherwise abused pastures.

The best protection against the toxic plants is to prevent overgrazing and to ascertain that there is plenty of ground cover to prevent erosion.

Nearly all the species of locoweed are colorful and spectacular when in blossom. Some have a rank, disagreeable odor.

Milkweed, a plant most often found on old pastures, along roadsides and in old fields and other waste places, often is the cause of plant poisoning in sheep and occasionally in cattle and with violent spasms followed by a staggered gait, loss of muscular control and death.

Again we point out that livestock only eat these plants when other forage is in short supply as on overgrazed pasture or in late fall and early spring.

Sheep raisers should consider the fact that much of the milkweed is found along fences and roadways. Sheep should be kept away from same if there is any evidence of the weed.

Supplemental feeding sometimes helps offset the effects of milkweed poisoning in sheep. Eradication of milkweed on a large scale is considered impractical. In small areas the plants may be controlled chemically or with the use of grubbing or fire. We don't recommend the latter.

As with locoweed, the best all around remedy seems to be keeping pastures in top shape with adequate ground cover. Also keeping stock away from infected pastures.

In addition to the above mentioned plants that are toxic to range animals, we include a list of some others that sometimes give trouble in the Panhandle.

First a plant called arrowgrass. It grows throughout the U.S., living on the borders of marshy areas and small ponds. The plants become most poisonous when the ground they grow on becomes dryish, as around a prairie buffalo wallow in summer.

Chokeberry, a small plant that grows on moist hillsides and in canyons, is acutely poisonous to sheep and occasionally to cattle. This plant is especially noticeable in overgrazed and dry pastures.

Another poisonous range plant found in the Panhandle is death camas. Many species of this plant thrive on sandy soils of the plains and in the drier rocky foothills. This plant is poisonous at all times of the year and affects mainly sheep.

Greasewood isn't found extensively in the Panhandle but mostly in the far western portion. In small amounts the shrub provides some food value, but when consumed in large quantities, it can be highly toxic.

Greasewood grows mostly in soils that are dryish and have a high salt or alkaline content.

Oak brush or as it is called locally, shinnery, is often poisonous to stock, especially early in the spring when its growth is new and tender and other foliage hasn't yet started

John Vick Davis, 65, died Saturday in Ohio City, Colorado. Mr. Davis is a former resident of Happy, and farmed there for several years before moving to Colorado.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning in the LaGrone Funeral Chapel with Rev. Walter Hadley, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Shallowater, officiating. Rev. Hadley is formerly from Happy. Burial was in the Happy Cemetery.

Mr. Davis was born August 17, 1897, in Vernon, Texas. Pallbearers were Phil Magness, Don Magness, Weldon Sims, Carol Sims, Vonnie Field, Dale Whitlow, Ed Workman, and J. D. Workman.

Young Mayor Seeks Congressional Post

"Young in years but old in experience," is the way one man introduced Jack Seale recently. At 34, the young congressional hopeful had run a successful business for 12 years and was the country's youngest mayor among cities the size of Amarillo.

In early summer, 1961, Jack and his friends and supporters started putting together a campaign organization. With the organization complete the campaign was kicked off in early September and Jack has been traversing the top 28 counties of the Texas Panhandle for six weeks in his bid to represent these counties in Washington.

"The best way to describe this household is 'busy'," his wife, Polly says. Polly has been a powerful force behind Jack's decision to be a candidate for the United States House of Representatives.

"Polly and I talked for months about government and why more concerned citizens must become more active."

"We knew we had no right to complain about government if we were not willing to do something personally about it. We began to realize that we must be willing to work for it. . . . that we must accept more responsibility for better government. This was more than a year before I announced my candidacy."

"After talking to life-long friends, they encouraged me to enter this race. Now, these same friends are taking time from their businesses, and are working many hours each day to elect me to Congress."

"We love the Panhandle of Texas and the people," Jack has said in his speeches. "This will always be our home."

Polly and Jack are fully aware of the changes that will be wrought if Jack is elected to Congress. With five children, they knew that this was no minor undertaking when Jack announced that he would be a candidate.

Almost since the day he officially announced that he would be in the race, it has been a flurry of activity for both him and Polly, and in fact, the entire Seale family.

Polly has been with Jack for many public appearances both in Amarillo and throughout the 28-county area since early September. "When we have to drive 75 miles or more for a 7:30 breakfast, we're usually up around 4:30 and never home until dark and sometimes it's midnight or after."

"The busy life of a mayor's wife was never like this," Polly remarks. "I just 'thought' I was busy before the campaign started." "However, I've loved being able to meet so many fine people, all over the Panhandle," she says.

Jack has had little time for much family life since the campaign began. When he is in Amarillo, he's always up and away before the kids are out of bed. When he is in town in the evening, he either has a speaking engagement, or he is in the mayor's office catching up on the homework.

Friends who know Jack best and grew up with him say that he has always worked hard and played hard. He was voted the best all-around athlete at Amarillo High as a Senior, and was also voted the best all round graduate.

Jack was president of his Senior Class and was a member of the Honor Society and the Ken Club. He managed to be active in extra-curricula activities even though he worked part time for his father in the construction business while attending high school.

Jack explains this part-time work as "generally dirty work like cleaning out under houses." This was his first taste of the home-building business.

After graduating from Amarillo High School, Jack attended Amarillo College and continued to work in his father's business. In 1947 Jack and Polly were married. Earlier the same year Polly was elected Miss Amarillo.

Jack took over the home-building and land development business when his father, the late Fred Seale, died in 1951. The business was 12 years old when Jack took over.

Under Jack's direction, the business continued to grow. The Hamlet addition in north Amarillo became one of the largest developments in the city during the next 10 years.

Though busy running a growing business, Jack became active in civic work. He is a past chairman of the board of directors of the Cerebral Palsy Center, and was co-chairman of the fund drive to build the center. He taught Sunday School and was an Asst. Boy Scout Leader. Jack is currently a member of the Vestry and the Building Committee of St. Andrews Episcopal Church, and is a past president of the Amarillo Exchange Club.

In 1953, he was elected Amarillo's Outstanding Young Man of the Year. In 1959, he was elected to the Amarillo City Commission, and two years later he was elected Mayor of Amarillo. . . . the youngest mayor in the country among towns with the population of Amarillo.

Friends describe Jack Seale as a man who is dedicated to the task whether it be his business, his duties as mayor, his fight for better government, or the fight against the spreading threats of communism.

He will be 35 two days after Christmas. He was born December 27, 1927 in Amarillo and has lived here since.

Even the Seale kids get mixed up in the campaign chores. Pam, 14, is vice president of the TARS (Teen Age Republicans) and Rose Mary, 13, is a member of the group. They don their colorful red and white TAR uniforms and join in all the parades and rallies for Dad.

The Tars worked several evenings recently at the Seale Headquarters at 5th and Tyler mailing Seale brochures and other materials to citizens of the 18th congressional district.

Washington would mean a new way of life for the Seale family. It would mean new friends for Jack and Polly and new friends for the youngsters. Jack and Polly are well aware of the adjustment they would be making from the typical home life of the average family in Amarillo, Texas. "But we're eager to go," Jack says.

The 13 and 14-year old daughters and 9 year old John David are especially reluctant to leave Amarillo schools and friends, but they're all very proud of their father.

The catchy Seale tune from Jack Seale radio and TV commercials "Hey, Look at Seale" is the number one tune at the Seale house right now.

Barbed Wire Played Role In Development Of Area

BY JIM THOMAS

Perhaps the most controversial single portion of the great story of the West is the story of barb-wire.

The story of barb-wire can be found in the vast halls of the Panhandle Plains Museum in Canyon. The center of Western American history.

As settlement of the West got under way in the early 19th century, farmers and ranchers found more and more need for a practical method of fencing. They had found out early that fencing the boundless prairies and deep canyons of the West was more of a problem than fencing has been in the East.

Eastern fencing methods of the day were to build from the materials most available which were rock and timber. Most of the prairies, however, had little rock and hardly any timber. In addition, sparse vegetation and slow growth of forage required tremendous acreage for raising livestock. This necessitated much longer fences than had been used in the East.

Thus, fencing the prairies required a fence material that was cheap, could be erected rapidly and one that could be transported long distances over little or no roads at all. Such a fence material did not exist.

Records of the Philadelphia Agricultural Society indicate that wire fencing was proposed as early as 1816. This first proposal recommended plain wire for the fence and living trees for the posts. Certainly not very practical for the treeless prairies, but they were getting closer to the solution. Not much more was done until 1850. About this time, plain galvanized fencing began to show up. It is estimated that between 1850 and 1870, about 350,000 miles of galvanized wire were in use. Galvanized wire was cheap, easily transported, easily erected, and it gave relief to the farmer, especially in the fast growing regions of the West and South-west where timber was scarce.

As good and handy as plain galvanized wire was, it had serious drawbacks. Cattle walked right through it. It was susceptible to rapid changes in temperature, snapping in cold and sagging in heat.

By 1870, when good steel became available and modern machinery production could make strong wire fencing cheap and plentiful, the stage was set for the invention of a better fence wire.

Growing by leaps and bounds the West was by now clamoring for a good, cheap and dependable type of wire fencing that would turn cattle. An unlimited market awaited its introduction.

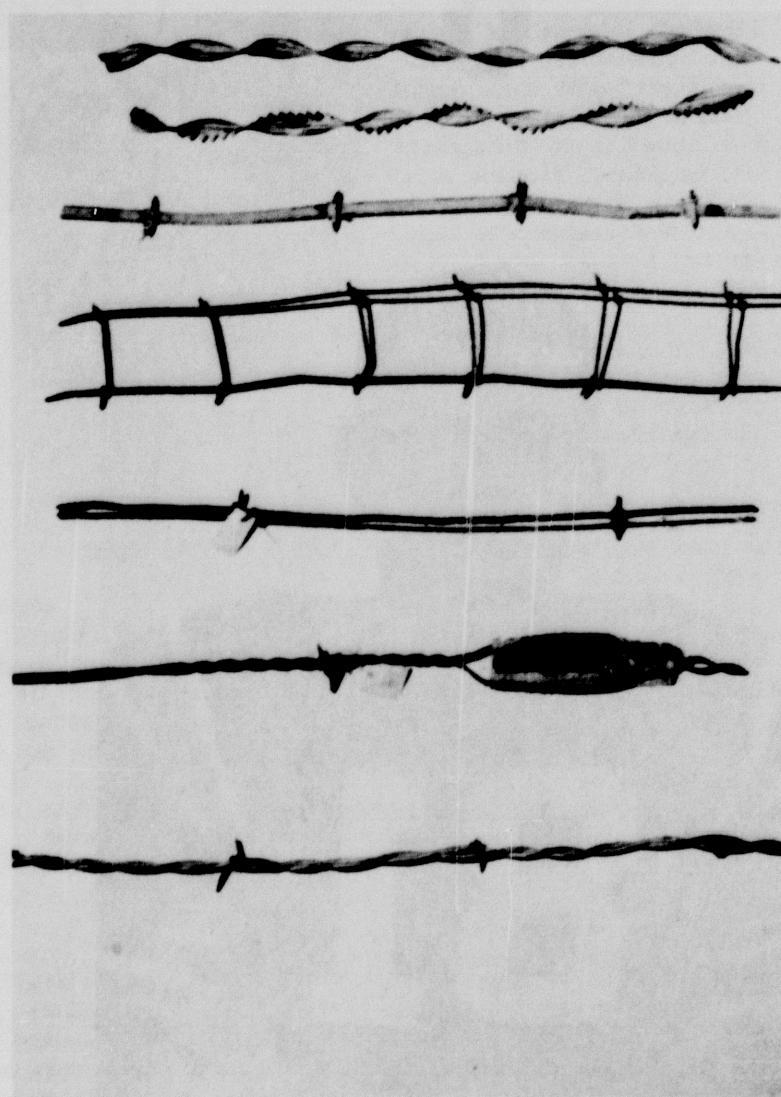

As the need became more evident for a new kind of fencing for the prairies, several Eastern inventors made efforts to solve the problem.

In 1867, Alphonso Dabb came up with the idea of arming a fence post or picket with sharp barbs or nails. The purposes of his invention were solely defensive. His patent failed to mention the use of it for turning cattle.

The first realistic approach to the prairie fencing problem was proposed by the patent of Lucien B. Smith, also in 1867. Smith proposed arming a single, heavy gauge wire with revolving spools with sharp-pointed barbs sticking out from the spools. It is significant that Smith mentioned in his patent that a fence made of such a wire would serve to turn cattle.

This was the first mention of a wire cattle fence armed with points or spurs. Smith's fence was the true forerunner of the barb-wire fence of today.

In July of 1867, a few months after Smith's patent, a man

This exhibit at Panhandle Plains Museum reveals the evolution of barbed wire. Barbed wire played an important role in the development of this area. Some of the more famous barb-wires that helped the cattle industry in the West are shown here.

Starting at the bottom is the Glidden wire, the most famous and widely used barb-wire in the West. This piece is from the Frying Pan Ranch South Fence. It was put up in 1883.

Next is the W. Watkins barb, which had a factory installed wooden block to make the fence visible to the wild cattle of the day.

Above the Watkins wire is one of the many lobo breeds of wire that were put up for sale during the cattle kingdom period. The ladder wire shown next, was made about 1890. It too is one of the more than 480 various patents of barb-wire.

Next up the line is the J. & W. M. Brinkerhoff ribbon wire. It used a special hook-like staple.

The top two wires are other forms of ribbon wire which were popular for a time in the West.

named William D. Hunt secured a patent for a wire cattle fence armed with revolving spurs cut from sheet metal. In the words of Hunt, "Animals are deterred from pushing against the fence or attempting to break it."

The prairies were getting closer to the end of their open range days. Up to this point, however, no one had patented a wire cattle fence that was both practical and economical to manufacture.

In the early part of 1868, one Michael Kelly, patented a more practical type of barb-wire fence than any of his predecessors. The significant difference between Kelly's wire and the others was that he proposed two strands of twisted wire of small gauge with numerous small sheet metal barbs held in place by the wire twists.

Kelly also paid some attention to the production problems involved. He later manufactured the wire under the name of the Thorn Wire Hedge Company.

Later patents on barb-wire type fences include the use of iron strips with sharp barbs cut in the edges. Of these early patents, only Hunt, Smith and Kelly represented any real progress towards a good barb-wire fence. None but Kelly's could be manufactured on the semi-automatic machinery of the day.

Along about 1873, a farmer named Joseph Farwell Glidden from DeKalb, Illinois, attended the DeKalb County Fair where he and some friends saw a demonstration by a man named Henry Rose. Rose had a gimmick for improving farm fences.

He had taken a strip of wood an inch square and sixteen feet long and driven nails through it. He then hung the strip on the plain galvanized wire fence of the day and said it would stop cattle from crawling through the fence.

Glidden got his first idea for a barb-wire fence at this demonstration. Glidden, however, conceived the idea of placing barbs directly on the wire completely eliminating the hanging pieces of wood.

After experimenting a bit, Glidden found that he could make a serviceable barb-wire by using two strands of twisted wire with a wire barb between the strands. He wasn't satisfied, however, because the barbs had a habit of sliding along the wire and bunching up at one end. After accidentally entangling the land. In those days, a man was considered in control of the land if his cattle were on it. Water holes were few and far between. A single watering place served a vast expanse of grassland. A rancher who controlled the water holes also controlled the grass.

With the coming of cheap barb-wire, ranchers and farmers had an annoying habit of fencing off the water holes, thus making the miles of surrounding rangeland useless to anyone else.

Homesteaders put up fences across their claims. Often these fences blocked off the cattle trails and watering places traditionally used by cattlemen in trailing their cattle to market. Ranchers, especially the ones who had pioneered the West when it was all open range, just didn't like fences.

Wire cutters came into use, arguments grew into disputes and finally into battles. The blood letting was on. Finally the governor of Texas called out the Texas Rangers to control the fence wars. The Texas legislature passed laws prohibiting the cutting of fences. A man found with wire cutters in his saddle bags was liable to be hanged.

Time passed and people got used to the wire. As the East grew, demands for western beef grew to tremendous proportions. Barb-wire made it possible to introduce blooded cattle. Animal husbandry improved the quality of the beef coming out of the West. Winter losses were reduced by the fences.

Barb-wire was doing its part in the making of the West.

Canyon Taxidermist Mounted Old Charlie

BY GLENN WILSON

Awakened by a loud crashing sound that seemed to come from his living room, Mr. Leonard E. Simms arose during the night, and began checking throughout the house for cause of the disturbance.

Back in the living room, he was ready to believe he had been dreaming when, suddenly, he looked down into the grizzled blackish-gray face of a javalina! No--wild hogs do not grow in this part of the country, and this one had not escaped from a circus or zoo. You see, Mr. Simms is a taxidermist; he trapped, mounted, and hung the head of the javalina on the wall of his living room many years ago.

"I don't know why I did all these things," Mr. Simms commented from time to time, as he related his experiences as trapper and taxidermist.

"Old Charlie," the mounted buffalo that stands tall on the ground floor of the Panhandle Plains Museum, is a model of Mr. Simms' own making. He had the undesired privilege of skinning the big animal on one hot mid-July day. "I'd always heard that if you roped a buffalo, he would die, and that's what happened to 'Old Charlie', after he'd broken out of his pen." The buffalo had been purchased by the college from Colonel Charles Goodnight some ten years before, and kept in a pen where the Buffalo Courts now stand.

When the college burned, many birds and animals, mounted by Mr. Simms, burned too. The bobcat and rattlesnake in one glass case on the basement floor of the museum is his interesting model. Besides mounting birds and animals for the Museum, Mr. Simms molds miniature steer skulls, and models of the natural light house of Palo Duro Canyon. These are sold for souvenirs. "I have enough made up to supply the museum through the winter," Mr. Simms stated.

Mr. Leonard E. Simms was born in Saline County near Marshall, Missouri, in 1882. He remembers how he modeled objects from clay in the Missouri creek beds before he was old enough to go to school.

He was thumped on the ears later by his school teacher for drawing comic pictures during classes.

"When I was about eight years old the teacher had the class to draw pictures of the American flag. All the pupils, except me, drew straight lines with their rulers to represent the stars and stripes, but I made wavy lines and the teacher had the class to come up and look at my flag."

"I was the youngest of the boys in my family, and I remember that my brothers thought I had talent and tried to get my father to send me to art school, but my father was a farmer, and said, 'no.'"

"I'd give $100.00 for an old box that I kept when I was a boy, with all my sketches and models locked inside. I guess maybe it was just thrown away."

Thinking they were geese a man once shot some beautiful swan on Buffalo Lake. The game warden brought them to Mr. Simms who mounted one for the Panhandle Plains Museum, and one for the Lubbock Museum. When Mr. Simms first came to Canyon in 1900, he remembers, the depot with only a few scattered houses. This was before Palo Duro became a state park.

"It was a trappers paradise" commented Mr. Simms, who was appointed deputy game warden. "I was allowed to mount any migratory birds in the Canyon," he remembers. The bald eagle that hangs in the lodge at Palo Duro Park is another of his models.

He was married in 1904 to Inez Cynthia Connally, and the couple lived most of their life together in and near Canyon.

For three years between 1917 and 1920, they lived out a home- stead in Colorado, and his father-in-law questioned his wisdom after learning he'd chosen to live in the rough country instead of the nearby fertile plains; but Mr. Simms had seen the deer, the coyote, and the fox, and knew how he could make a living.

Why did Mr. Simms choose to be a taxidermist? Not because it pays well, it doesn't. Certainly not because the art is a simple one--it is very complicated; requiring a knowledge of anatomy, natural history, drawing, sculpture, mechanics, tanning and dyeing.

Glancing around the walls of his living room at various models of birds and animals, Mr. Simms repeated, "I don't know why I did all these things--I use to watch the feet of horses as they loped or trotted, so I could be sure to mold them that way."

Why did he do all these things? The answer is obvious; Mr. Leonard E. Simms is an artist.

Leonard Sims, taxidermist, poses here with Old Charlie, the original Buffalo. Sims relates how Old Charlie got lost and had to be roped. It did the old buffalo in and it was up to Sims to preserve him for posterity. He did and Old Charlie stands in serenity in Panhandle Plains Museum.

WT Students To Attend Conference

A group of West Texas State College speech students and faculty members will attend the annual Southwest Theatre Conference, which opens Thursday in Norman, Okla.

William A. Moore, director of WT's Branding Iron Theatre, will be moderator for the three-day convention's opening session.

Harry Gilstrap, Amarillo junior, will participate in a section discussion on playwrights and new plays. He will discuss his own play, "Consolation Prize," which was presented last spring in the Little Branding Iron Theatre.

The group will attend the University of Oklahoma production of "Ondine" Thursday night, "Richard III" on Friday, and the Mummer's production of "Invitation to a March" Saturday.

The days will be spent observing demonstrations in such things as wig-making and mask-making. Students and faculty and little theatre directors from five states will attend the convention.

From WT will be Moore, Gilstrap, Dr. Crannell Tolliver, Erin Wertenberger and Gary Wertenberger of Hereford, Lydia Miller of Brownwood, Judy Haney of Andrews, Wilson Evans of Friona, Gary Tydings of Hobbs, N.M., Yulonda Kidd of Duke, Okla., Douglass McMillan of Amherst, Dwayne Smith of Pampa, and Kay Brown of Muleshoe.

Hunting Reported Good

Deer hunting in Colorado is pretty good this year according to A. M. Cunningham of Canyon.

Cunningham, along with Keith Poole, A. L. Crossland of Canyon, Frank Ham and Roy Byrd of Amarillo, returned early Friday morning from a week's deer hunting in the mountains of Colorado.

The group returned with two elk and a mule deer. Cunningham said the elk field dressed about 400 pounds each and the deer about 180 pounds. "Every one had a good hunt," he said, "Every one filled his license," he added.

The group left Canyon last October 17, arriving near their hunting area Friday evening, said Cunningham. They pulled a camping trailer behind their station wagon and were met by their guide, Wayne Glover, a rancher in the area.

Cunningham said the guide watched the group and their equipment into the mountains on Baldy Mountain near Heflin Creek. The area is about 25 miles northeast of Bayfield, Colorado.

"We even had to rescue two hunters from another group," said Cunningham. They had to get one of the hunters from out of a canyon at 9 in the evening," he added.

Cunningham said the group had a wonderful trip and "brought back the bacon."

JACK COX CONSERVATIVE FOR GOVERNOR

Yes, Jack Cox is a Republican. He believes in getting things done. He is not living in the horse and buggy days. Jack is a real Texan and is well-educated. He can and will make Texas one of the best Governors of all time, because he is not being promoted by any special group. When he takes office, he will be free to work for all of the people in Texas.

If the voters of Randall County want a man in the Governor's office who is tied to Lyndon Johnson and the New Frontier in Washington, then do not vote for Jack Cox. If you want a man who has gotten rich in politics, then do not vote for Jack Cox. If you want a man who stole an election for his boss, then do not vote for Jack Cox. (Read the complete story of what happened in Precinct 13 in Jim Wells County in the 1948 election. This story is in the Texas Argus). If you want a man who is neither a conservative nor a liberal, neither cold nor hot, then do not vote for Cox. Jack Cox is one of the outstanding men in Texas.

After making a very close study of what Jack Cox has done in the past and what he stands for, it is my hope that the voters of Randall County will give him a large majority vote on November 6th.

It is also my hope that the young people will give Jack a large vote and support; for in the next few years the young people will be running the affairs of Texas.

Pd. Pol. Adv.

JACK COX has made over 3,000 speeches on Americanism and Constitutional Government. He has been honored on three occasions by the Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge with their award for Public Speaking, and is also the recipient of a special Americanism Award bestowed by the American Legion.

AROUND THE TOWN (with kids)

Friday night at the show, Oct. 19, Damon and Pythias, I was going up the aisle to get something to eat and I saw Pete Pedro. I said "Hi Pete" and he said hi back. Then as I was going back down the aisle I asked him if I could sit with him. He said I could if I would be quiet. So, I sat down.

A few minutes later he asked me a few questions. I answered them all with "Yes sir." Pete told me not to say yes sir but to call him Pete. But, I still said yes sir. Then he told me if I said yes sir any more he'd kick me out of the seat. You can be sure I didn't say yes sir again!

MRS. BRYAN McDONALD

First Pep Squad Leader Still Avid Buffalo Fan

Mrs. Bryan McDonald has been an avid Buffalo football fan for more than 40 years. In fact Mrs. McDonald was the first elected Buff cheer leader. She came to Canyon to school in 1919 and the following year she was elected cheer leader.

She protested that she knew nothing about football and had never seen a game. Coach McCorkle told her that it was all right and that he would assign a boy to her to teach her something about football. He assigned a hulking tackle, Bryan McDonald.

"He's been teaching me ever since, Mrs. McDonald declared with a laugh.

Last year Mrs. McDonald saw most of the Buff games. This year she expects to see all of them.

She is an unrelenting fan. She sometimes gives the referee a tough time. Also she has advice now and then for coaches who aren't in the win column as much as she thinks they ought to be.

Mrs. McDonald remembers that Mitch Jones, Gary Sims and Dan Sanders were among those who were playing the year she was named cheer leader. Her name then was Mary Meinecke.

Leaving school, Mrs. McDonald taught school for eight years at Ozona where her husband was a stock farmer. The McDonalds moved back to Canyon in 1944. She wanted her children to go to school here.

Four of her five children got West Texas State degrees. They were Charles, Dick, Bill and Pam. Donald went to A&I and played basketball there.

Charles was a center for the Buffs in the 1940s. While Charles was with the team the Buffs made their home at the McDonalds.

"The Buffs have always seemed like my children," Mrs. McDonald declared.

Mrs. McDonald likes to see her team win games by wide margins. "I like to see a big score," she declared.

"Ours is a very busy world and for a great many of us—particularly those who live in the cities—it is frequently both grim and drab. We spend our time fighting for an existence in an atmosphere of noise and bustle and ugly bricks and mortar, shut off from sun, light, air and natural life.

Art, and the love of it, can bring a great deal of joy and happiness into living under such conditions, but only if it is naturally assimilated and developed. It cannot be grafted onto life as an additional interest, but is a part of the essentials to be acquired in the ordinary course of natural growth, and a part of the acquisition of knowledge and experience of the things that matter in a life well lived.

To most children, lessons in art and art appreciation, have been something of a hard struggle to master an additional subject of considerable difficulty and doubtful use to their future life. The endeavor to turn them into exponents rather than an appreciative audience has sometimes created aversion and even contempt where joy should be found, and has been largely responsible for the difficulty.

From birth onwards we gather experience or learning from the discoveries we make from the known to the unknown and most of our pleasures come from the discoveries we make proceeding along that road.

Our first experiences and pleasures come from inside the home and gradually extend outwards to its surroundings. We judge everything by what we have seen ourselves."

Every child loves the country, warm sand, colored trees, blue skies, and this time of year! A little bit of the artist seems to well up in all our thoughts when we travel to the country this time of year. Being able to paint all the color we see may be too much for some of us (however anyone can paint who really wants to) but the power to enjoy and appreciate the scenery shouldn't escape people living in our area.

No, don't rush over to New Mexico. It would be fun, of course, to travel to see the aspens, but you don't have to go so far from your own doorstep.

This next few weeks try to drive to the Palisades, Lake Stockton, Buffalo Lake, or if you have a Sunday afternoon go on the Northeast Panhandle Foliage Tour. You will enjoy the shadowy rolling hills on the way to Canadian, Texas. You might even take your picnic supper and stay awhile in the picnic area at Lake Marvin. It's a lovely trip and your children would love the short vacation trip.

I imagine that the trip through the canyons between Claude and Silverton would make a nice Sunday outing.

Most of all the beauty of the Fall scenery should bring a wonderful sense of serenity to you that can be very rewarding in these uncertain days. Learn to look, enjoy life more, and teach your children how much fun it is to see the beauty around them.

RE-ELECT

WAYLAND

DEMOCRAT CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY JUDGE -
RANDALL COUNTY

NO SUBSTITUTE
FOR 2½ YEARS OF QUALIFIED EXPERIENCE

I am the only candidate with QUALIFIED EXPERIENCE to fill this office. I have no other office to maintain. I am the only candidate who will promise full time and give it. I have proved this in the past.

The major duties of the County Judge are: Acting as JUVENILE JUDGE. This requires much time and thought because the decisions made in these cases will effect the lives of our future citizens. The results I have had in handling these cases have been most gratifying.

The County Judge has a big responsibility acting as JUDGE of PROBATE COURT. This deals with the investments of the assets of minors and incompetents. It is his duty to see that these are administered and conducted in accordance with the Probate Code and the laws of the state. The MENTAL HEALTH CODE requires much knowledge and experience. He must protect the individual and be prepared to administer the law when these problems arise. I am also qualified to handle all CRIMINAL and CIVIL cases filed in this Court, and fulfill the duties as EX-OFFICIO COUNTY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT.

I earnestly solicit your vote and support.

In Texas the population will increase from 8,407,000 in 1953 to 12,608,000 in 1975.

Total acreage of crops, including cropland pasture, will be about 6 percent greater in 1975 than in 1953. The amounts of extensively cultivated cropland in Texas will decline by about 10 percent by 1975. Urban and industrial expansion will be responsible for some of this decrease. Irrigated croplands will probably increase by about 850,000 acres by 1975.

The need for recreational facilities will continue to expand at a more rapid rate than population growth.

With the expected cropland acreage and fuller adoption by farmers of available technical knowledge in crop production, it appears that market demands in 1975 can be met if certain adjustments are made.

In Texas shifts and adjustments trends in land use will continue to occur in various regions of the state. Major shifts toward livestock, dairying, forage production and vegetables will occur to meet increased market demands for such products. New and improved technological practices will continue to be adopted raising the level of production per farm and per worker to even greater levels. Texas is faced with a serious problem of water conservation and management. Special programs of public assistance with particular standards for private participation may be required to meet this problem. Public programs of assistance in conservation will be continued at least at present levels, with the added feature that a "State Water Plan" is in the making which may add impetus to water conservation measures.

Ancient Indian Camp Found In Palo Duro

BY JIM THOMAS

The Panhandle Plains area is not only the site of much modern day living, it now appears to have been home to some rather old residents, 8000 or 9000 year old residents in fact.

Dick Carter, an amateur archeologist from Amarillo, has found an Indian campsite in Palo Duro Canyon, which was evidently used 8000 or 9000 years ago by Indians of the Angostura group.

While searching the hillside of the canyon for signs of Indian campsites, Carter noticed a flint chip weathering out of the soil. By carefully scraping the soil away, inch by inch, he found two paleo-Indian flint arrow and spear points. Their shape indicated that they were made by a very early group of Indians called the Angosturas.

Finding traces of scattered charcoal and ash, Carter realized he had found the campsite of a very ancient man. Being a serious amateur archeologist, interested in the scientific value of the find, Carter carefully measured off a trench twenty feet long and five feet wide.

Taking one five foot square at a time and scraping down inch by inch, Carter found two more spear points, numerous flint hide scrapers and flint chips among many pieces of broken and powdered charcoal.

Carter said the find, which is buried under several feet of soil washed down from the cliffs above, represents a camping site used more than 8000 years ago. He dates the site by the type of points found in it. Its age makes it important.

The oldest known Indian sites in the Southwest are the Sandia Mountains site near Albuquerque, New Mexico, and the Clovis site in Eastern New Mexico. Both sites were used by early man more than 10,000 years ago. The Folsom site, also in New Mexico, was used about 10,000 years ago.

Recent archaeological investigations of the Angostura Reservoir in Western South Dakota have brought to light a series of campsites which produced arrow and spear points that were unique in construction.

These campsites were dated by archeologists, using carbon 14 analysis of the charcoal found in the site. They proved to be eight to nine thousand years old. The points that came from the site were of the Angostura type and included another type called the Plainview, which are considered the same age as Angostura.

County Agent's Column

This week all the Extension workers in Texas will be at the State headquarters. This is the Texas A & M College. This conference is held every two years for the purpose of agents training. It will be nice to revisit the campus of my alma mater and renew acquaintances with other extension workers over the state. Our office will be open as usual in the Randall County Courthouse and the secretary, Mary Ruggles, will be on duty.

Randall County officials of the United States Department of Agriculture and the cooperating agencies are organized into a Civil Defense Board. This board will become an important board in the case of a national disaster. Its duties will be many fold. The chief function will handle food supplies below the retail level. Coordination of efforts is made with the regular Civil defense organizations and local governing bodies. Members of this board will have educational, administrative, and radiological monitoring duties.

An income tax school for Randall County farmers and ranchers and professional people who work with farmers and ranchers on income tax matters will be held in Canyon on Thursday, Nov. 8. This group will meet in the Randall County junior Livestock Building at 1:30 P.M. and will be there for about two hours. This is a cooperative effort of the Texas A & M College Extension Service and the Department of Internal Revenue. C. James Murphy of the Amarillo Extension office and a representative of the Internal Revenue Service will conduct this school. There is no charge. Women are invited.

Dimmitt, Texas, will be the scene of a fertilizer school for fertilizer distributors and leading farmers in this area. This school will meet on Wednesday night for three consecutive weeks. The first meeting will be at 7:30 P.M. on Nov. 8. Some excellent talent has been lined up. Research workers and technicians from the Plant Food Industry will conduct this school. If you desire to learn more about this school, give me a call.

Lynn, an early disease-resistant, dwarf-intermediate castorbean variety, has been released following development under the cooperative research program of the USDA and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

He said he got started in archeology when he started attending meetings of a rock club in Amarillo. While hunting rocks and minerals on an outing, the group ran across an old Indian campsite with ruins. He soon lost his interest in rocks and started to concentrate on archeology.

Carter is a member of both the Texas and New Mexico Archeological Societies, the Panhandle Plains Historical Society and several rock clubs in the Panhandle.

The entire Carter family takes part in these archeological digs, Carter says. His wife, Mary Ruth; daughter Becky, 14; and son Dan, 10; often go with Carter, sharing in his searches for evidence of the living habits of early man in the Southwest.

Carter hastens to point out that he isn't what he calls a "pot hunter." This, he says, is someone who just goes out hunting relics so he can dig them up for display at home.

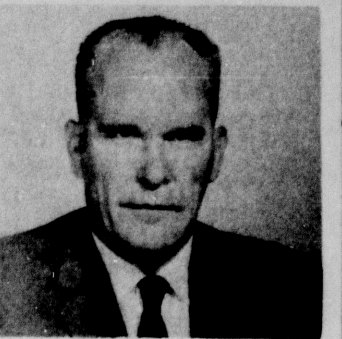

He says he has been interested in early man sites for some time. His work, he says, is concerned with careful archeological study of the site for the story it can tell. The finding of arrow and spear points is only incidental, he said.

Carter added that early man sites, such as the one he has found in Palo Duro Canyon, are very scarce. When he found the site, he wanted to determine its age as closely as he could. By all appearances, this site will prove to be one of the oldest known evidences of early man in Texas. Eight or nine thousand years is a long time.

When you're at an Eagle football game, give the team a boost by being on the field to greet them.

I am a graduate of the University of Texas, 49 years old, and have been a Professional Engineer, registered with the Texas State Board of Engineers since 1945. I have worked as a Petroleum Engineer, Drilling Supt., Directing Engineer and Manager of Operations for both Oil Producing and Oilwell Drilling Companies, and am now an Independent Consulting Engineer.

I am not, nor ever have been a professional politician. This is the first time to offer myself as a political candidate. I am doing so because we need better public officials. I feel that there is a very serious need for honest public servants who will place their duty to the taxpayers above their own private gain, and who are independent of pressure groups or individuals.

Lawyers, abstractors and others have mentioned the difficulty in obtaining service on recordings in the Randall County Clerk's Office. There is a lot of needless delay for which there is no excuse. Papers which can be processed in the Potter County Clerk's Office in a matter of minutes require days in Randall County. Also, you have read about the several incidents involving the minutes and records of the Randall County Commissioner's Court being misplaced, overlooked, or never made in the first place. This is the responsibility of the County Clerk and the job has been mishandled.

I have the education, the experience of management and office routine, and the integrity to make an efficient County Clerk. A vote for Bryan L. Denson will be a vote for better service to you. I have no ranch, no farm, nor any other business which would interfere with the running of the County Clerk's Office. If elected the County Clerk's Office and its service to you will be my first, not my last responsibility. For honest, courteous, efficient service in the Randall County Clerk's Office,
